Land is an indicative take per unit — the fenced playing area plus run-off, circulation, parking and ancillary space. Courts can be stacked where land is the binding constraint, which cuts the acreage roughly in half.

Brazil built its technical base on small-sided volume rather than on wealth, which makes it the fair benchmark. Its own published counts are divided by its population and applied to this county's population today.

Every figure is a research estimate generated from this county's own population, wages and prices and from published build costs. Capex and opex answer to a survey and a detailed costing; land answers to a registered valuer.
